

Share the Light Journey

A call to churches to make a journey of discovery into God's Word is the main thrust of the next phase in Scripture Union's Share the Light campaign.

Share the Light, launched last autumn, began as a challenge to Christians to commit to pray once a month for a year, that people would rediscover the relevance, power and vitality of God's word. Around 1,000 are receiving monthly Share the Light prayer updates by email or post.

Resources are being produced for the second phase – Share the Light Journey – to enable Christians to make a journey of Bible discovery over 40 days. Share the Light Journey is flexible enough to start at any time: the beginning of the church "term" in September, Bible Sunday, the New Year, Lent.

A church resource pack that inspires people to make the journey will be available free of charge in June. A special edition of the popular Scripture Union book Essential 100 comes as part of the pack, acting as a "journey manual" to help bring the Bible to life.

The special edition of Essential 100 will be available at a discount for groups wanting to make the journey. And to encourage the shared experience, the pack contains a resource for small groups to help people share their insights and to go deeper into God's Word.

Share the Light was launched in 2003, in response to the decline in regular personal Bible reading. Scripture Union's aim is to get the Bible back on people's agenda, to give them the opportunity to rediscover the Bible's revelation of the heart of God and its potential of transforming us into people with a real sense of meaning and purpose.
