

Multiculturalism: Friend or Foe

The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr Rowan Williams

Toynbee Hall

Learning from local action
developing national solutions

Where: Toynbee Hall, 28 Commercial Street, London E1 6LS

When: Wednesday 16th May 2006, 6.30 – 8.30pm

Ticket price: £10

Britain is frequently described as a multicultural society, and perceptions of 'Britishness', inclusion, integration and diversity are matters of continuing controversial debate. But what does this all mean? On 16th May 2007 Toynbee Hall will see one of Britain's leading public intellectuals, the Archbishop of Canterbury, address the topic of 'Multiculturalism: Friend or Foe'.

Doors open at 6.30pm for refreshments and the talk will start at 7.30pm, followed by a question and answer session.

Tickets must be booked in advance. To download a booking form visit www.toynbeehall.org.uk or for further information contact Deborah Reynolds, Events and Membership Officer at Toynbee Hall on 020 7392 2928 or email events@toynbeehall.org.uk

About Toynbee Hall

Toynbee Hall is a charity based in the East End of London. The organisation produces practical innovative programmes for young people and families, adults, and older people, to meet the needs of local people, improve conditions and enable communities to fulfil their potential. Last year, with a staff team of 42, Toynbee Hall enlisted the support of over 400 volunteers to make a difference in the lives of more than 6,000 local people.

Toynbee Hall makes a difference by producing local programmes that have the power to become national solutions, with a constant and ongoing commitment to the development of social policy and networks for positive change.
