Fresh Expressions is an initiative of the Archbishops of Canterbury and York supported by the Methodist Council and working in partnership with many churches across Great Britain.

*2007/08 Methodist President Martyn Atkins

"There's no one kind of church life that captures everything or does every kind of job. There are new kinds of work with teenagers, and new kinds of work with pensioners and others. There's already a huge amount going on and our job is to join in, and give it the nourishment it needs so that it will grow in the right way."
