We will be tailoring our delivery of our short courses in the year ahead, in accordance with Government guidance on physical distancing, with the safety, health and wellbeing of our University community at the heart of our decisions. This may mean that your chosen short course will be delivered online. We will notify you of any changes to the currently planned mode of delivery as soon as possible.

Whatever the way you start your Westminster experience - online, on campus or a blend of these - you can be assured of a warm welcome at our University, where your wellbeing, the quality of our teaching and your learning experience, are our priorities.
